

My home is not there to finance
your castle

THE GOOD, THE BAD AND THE MARKET.

Affordable Housing, Collective culture, and Spaces of Resistance in Contemporary Berlin

Join the International Federation for Housing and Planning (IFHP), the Danish Architecture Center (DAC) and the Deutsches Architektur Zentrum (DAZ) to discuss and debate Berlin's contemporary housing challenges and alternative measures to ensure adequate affordable housing in the city.

Berlin, like many cities around the world is in the midst of a 'new housing crisis'. Traditionally a 'rental' city with a variety of low cost housing options, Berlin's housing situation is at risk of unbalancing the very urban fabric that makes the city so attractive. Shifting housing and planning regulations, increasing foreign property investment, high immigration numbers, stagnating wages and a proactive citizen activist movement mean Berlin's contemporary housing environment is as complex as it is chaotic; the perfect setting for an urban lab then!

Engaging urban practitioners, politicians, housing groups, academics and activists to name a few, the LAB will assess Berlin's contemporary housing challenges, discuss how and why co-housing communities can be supported through ideas, structures and financing, and question the role of public and private housing corporations to ensure Berlin's affordable housing future.

When:

Wednesday 11th November 18:00 – 20:30

Where:

Deutsches Architektur Zentrum Köpenicker
Straße 48/49, 10179 Berlin

MODERATOR:

Carlos Morales-Schechinger – Senior Expert Urban Land, HIS Erasmus University of Rotterdam

CONTRIBUTORS:

Philipp Misselwitz – Chair of Habitat Unit, TU Berlin

Cordula Fay – Neighbourhood Development Consultant, Dewego

Han Joosten - Head of Acquisition Project Development and Marketing, Baufonds Immobilien GmbH

Ignacio G. Galán, - Chief Curator with the After Belonging Agency, Oslo Architecture Triennale 2016 and more to come...

ORGANISERS:

The IFHP is a Copenhagen based worldwide network of professionals representing the fields of housing and planning.

DAC is Denmark's national center for the development and dissemination of knowledge about urban development, cities, buildings and architecture.

IFHP

International Federation for Housing and Planning

DAC & LIFE
DANSK
ARKITEK
CENTER BUILD CITIES